Message from the Founder

We are humbled by the fact that we continued to expand our network of supporters during these difficult times, further increasing donor income to meet the new demands.

Dear Friends,

Recently someone asked me why I do this work. I went off on a rant for a full 15 minutes about the hardship of the people we serve and how good it feels to see the difference we can make. We may have a new donor now.

Donors, that is all of you, provided enormous support for our Covid-19 emergency response in 2019 and we remain very grateful. Our position and reputation were strengthened. This also led to a lot more work and a significant overload in 2020.

In 2021 the humanitarian disaster caused by the situation in Myanmar resulted in even greater demand for our services. Thousands fled the violence, many into areas where we already supported ‘regular’ projects.

Although our project partners were still recovering from 2020, and were in serious trouble themselves, they started helping the displaced but they urgently needed funding. Faced with these new emergencies, we reached out to our supporters, and not in vain.

Much of the work in these troubled areas cannot be discussed in public. Our supporters have been very flexible and understood the need to respond quickly to rapidly changing circumstances.

We remain committed to assisting where we can whilst balancing the need to support our existing projects that deliver long term benefits empowering the most underserved.

We are humbled by the fact that we continued to expand our network of supporters during these difficult times, further increasing donor income to meet the new demands. We are grateful to see that our approach, and transparency, is valued.

MESSAGE FROM A SPONSOR

Edwin Wierda,
Owner and CEO Wierda Vermogensbeheer

I have known Sallo and Philanthropy Connections for many years. Actually the contact was established by Catherine Keyl. She is well known in Holland and she told me about the good work of the team of Sallo. I decided to help.

In my opinion, it is “my duty” to help the people who need it at most. Personally I have a good life and it feels good for me to support others. Of course it is very important that the money and effort will be put to good use. Sallo keeps me well informed with what is happening in the projects I support.

Philanthropy Connections is guided by Sallo, but it is not a one-man show. The organization is professional. That is one of the reasons it is classified as ANBI Stichting in Holland. That is important for me. I am happy that I can help people through Sallo’s organization. I have deep respect for him and his life’s meaning. For me it is natural to support the people who need it.

You can find out more about BNSCLC, one of the projects Edwin supports, on their dedicated page on our website.
Philanthropy Connections Foundation (PCF) is a non-profit organisation that supports people in vulnerable situations in Thailand, Myanmar and Cambodia.

We work in partnership with local organisations that know the needs of their communities. They are the ideal partners to implement projects that will address these problems. What they often lack are the resources to find help from outside.

Before we support, the partner and project undergo a rigorous assessment.

We find the required help for our partners - we connect, we engage, we facilitate. We shine a light onto small, effective grassroots organisations.

Our portfolio of projects is diverse, but every project we invest in is created to improve the living conditions of the most vulnerable and underserved. Each one enables impoverished communities to become more self-sufficient and gives its members the tools to lead independent, dignified lives.

We are delighted with our past success record and are committed to continued growth to support more people and expand our treasured community of supporters, donors, volunteers and partners.

Fortune, luck and opportunity are not equally divided in our world and, if we open our eyes, we are confronted by this on a daily basis.

While working and living in Asia for over 3 decades, you often encounter people in very difficult situations, caught in a vicious circle of poverty, without being able to break free due to a lack of education and therefore opportunity.

After working with a number of NGOs over the years, to try to improve the life of some, we learned to know Philanthropy Connections and immediately fell in love with their direct, down-to-earth and personal approach.

Over the past 5 years, we have closely cooperated to break the circle of poverty, by supporting the education of young, unprivileged, students in the North of Thailand. This does not only require the funds we make available, but a great deal of work on the side of Philanthropy Connections as well to select, guide and coach these students throughout their entire education.

Equipped with a good degree, these students are not only able to lift themselves and their family out of poverty, but become a beacon of hope for the society they live in as well.

If you want to feed the hungry, not only buy them fish, but teach them how to fish!
JANUARY 2021

"Doing what you can to help people means more to me now than ever before..."

Even as his own business was facing many challenges, Simon Bradshaw wanted to help people during the pandemic. So he and his family drove to the remote Koung Jor Shan Refugee Camp and Ban Pha Lai village to deliver essential food and supplies.

FEBRUARY 2021

BREAKING THE CYCLE OF POVERTY

Alang and his siblings live in a small hut in a remote village where most people only speak their native language but teachers teach in Thai. Alang and his friends don’t speak Thai and so many of them will drop out to work on the farm.

This innovative programme that trains teachers to teach in the local language, AND in Thai, improving their chances of finishing school and escaping poverty.

MARCH 2021

A BRIGHT FUTURE FOR A SCHOLARSHIP STUDENT

Piyawat was accepted into two Universities! What a feat considering the disadvantages and struggles he had to overcome.

Congratulations to Piwayat - he took every opportunity and his persistence and dedication will make for a great future.
ONE DAY IN THE LIFE: Poe Si, English & History Teacher
Poe Si was born and raised in Pwoh Pwo Lay at the Thai/Myanmar Border but had to flee when very young due to the constant military conflict. After moving many times he finally found a place with a good school. Upon graduating he decided to return to his home town to become a teacher and to nurture the next generation.

APRIL 2021

YOU CAN HAVE SUCH AN IMPACT FROM A WORLD AWAY!
The remote village of Ban Phai Lai was locked down due to COVID infections. With their crops devalued, rising food prices and work difficult to find, the 750 residents were desperate. Thanks to a Dutch sponsor we provided them with essential food to supplement their diet - relieving their meager budgets and making sure their children can eat.

MAY 2021

FINALLY THEY CAN GO TO SCHOOL FOR THE FIRST TIME!
In 2019, PCF supported building a school in a very remote area of Myanmar where children have no educational opportunities. Just as it was completed, COVID restrictions prevented them from using their new school. But now the children are finally able to enjoy their first classes in a real school!
MAKING CONNECTIONS THAT MAKE THINGS HAPPEN
There are many needs in the world, but with limited funds, there is only so much we can do. What we can do though is make connections between other organisations that can help each other. Thanks to the connection we made between the Chiang Mai International Rotary Club and Shan Women’s Action Network, the Koung Jor Nursery school now receives nutritional school lunches.

JULY 2021

EMERGENCY FOOD RELIEF FOR 1,000 MIGRANT FAMILIES (5,500 PEOPLE)
Migrant workers and their families in 3 rural districts of Chiang Mai Province are currently facing a desperate situation. The latest round of restrictions has resulted in unpaid or deferred wages, leaving the families with no money to buy food. Through our emergency relief initiative, we were able to help them with enough food to survive.

AUGUST 2021

A STEP TOWARDS SUSTAINABILITY
When a motorcycle tour group visited one of the leadership training centres that we support, they were impressed to see how bright young people from underserved areas were learning to become ‘Change Makers’. But they also heard about the lack of a reliable water supply for the school, so the group and the staff from Bike Tour Asia worked tirelessly to raise funds!
WOULDN’T YOU WANT A STRONG START IN LIFE FOR THESE KIDS...?
We have been supporting preschools for 130 children, from 3 to 5 years old, in five remote rural villages in Cambodia since 2013. Without this they would not only miss out on the solid foundation that preschools bring, but also on the extra nutrition and the health monitoring that the schools provide.

YOUR MONTHLY DONATIONS AT WORK
While many parts of the world have returned to some kind of normalcy, the situation for refugees has not improved at the same rate.

Faced with many obstacles to provide enough food for their families, the Koung Jor Refugee Camp asked for rice and cooking oil. With your monthly donations we have been able to support them since April 2020. Thank you!

MEETING THE NEW DUTCH AMBASSADOR TO THAILAND
Sallo met with H.E. Remco van Wijngaarden, the new Dutch Ambassador to Thailand, on his brief but busy two day visit to Chiang Mai.

We hope to be able to take the ambassador on a visit to one of our projects in the coming year.
In 2015 I first met with PCF and their chairman Sallo Polak. I was trying to find a trusted organisation working on small scale humanitarian projects in Cambodia. And why Cambodia? Well, in 2006 I travelled widely there and saw the intense poverty in the towns and villages. Since then I always wanted to provide some financial support.

Sallo suggested the local partner of PCF in Cambodia; KAKO. They have projects aiming to better the health and sanitary conditions in small rural communities, improve education for preschoolers and scholarships for children who would otherwise not afford to go to school.

I was able to visit a number of these projects together with my husband. We were also able to meet some of the students we sponsor. They are so happy to continue their school education and by doing so have better chances for their future.

Every year we receive small messages about their well being delivered via PCF. And it feels good. Together with my father we donate toward this project.

We are convinced the PCF approach "small scale and small steps" works well and we keep our belief in the vision of Sallo and PCF.

* Funds carried forward
At the end of the year, some substantial unexpected donations came in. At that time, our project budgets had already been allocated and to ensure the most effective use of these new amounts we reserved them for the coming year.
I have been working with PCF for one year and have seen that PCF, our local partners and our generous sponsors and donors contributed and delivered huge support through numerous projects for those in need. I am grateful to be a small part of this wonderful and amazing team to make a difference.

One significant project I admire is the Educational Support for IDPs Students. The current conflicts in Myanmar have forced many thousands of people to flee, most into the jungle though some to one of the temporary camps. In these circumstances, children are the most vulnerable and run the risk of being exploited, trafficked, recruited by armed forces, or caught up in drug-related problems.

With our support, a temporary school has been set up in a temporary IDP camp in Kayin state to help 188 children. A school for these children is not just a chance to keep up with their education; it also gives them some stability in what is a precarious situation. It helps keep them from harm, protects them from predation, and gives them the skills to survive in their environment and circumstances.

These tough circumstances reminded me of when I received a scholarship to continue my education. I believe that supporting these children in need should give all who contribute to this project a sense of fulfilment.
MESSAGE FROM A SUPPORTER

"As a motorcycle tour operator we enjoy living and working in SE Asia and are grateful to be able to support some community charities and projects that assist those in need.

In the beginning we were struggling finding a suitable long term charity project to support. This all changed when we met Sallo and his team at PCF.

Today we are very proud of the progress and development at Ban Nai Soi Community Learning Center in North West Thailand. With the guidance from PCF we know that the donations are generating the highest possible return for the students."

I started working for PCF beginning of May not knowing anything about them... I fell in love with their intentions and purpose. PCF searches for local projects that lack in awareness but nevertheless need just as much help and support.

It opened my eyes to see there are so many people in today’s world that need help but are overlooked. We need more organisations like PCF that fight for ‘small’ projects!
